

NaCTSO attending October UK Retail Risk Conference

Retail Risk is a sponsored series of global conferences with the aim of supporting the retail industry manage a range of risks including loss prevention and safety, both in store and online.

The National Counter Terrorism Security Office's (NaCTSO) Business Engagement Unit has been invited by the National Business Crime Centre to the UK Retail Risk Conference which takes place at the King Power Stadium, Leicester on 3rd of October. This is a great opportunity for NaCTSO and visitors to the conference to engage with a wide cohort of professionals including retail health and safety, risk managers, law enforcement personnel and academics.

Visitors attending will have the opportunity to listen and learn about the challenges those in the retail industry have experienced and are planning for in the future.

Exhibition stands

There will be a number of exhibition stands including a dedicated NaCTSO stand where visitors can meet with NaCTSO experts to talk about terrorism threats and low-cost mitigation options. Guests can also learn more about ProtectUK, ACT Awareness products and a range of other advice and guidance.

Keynote speaker events

Throughout the conference there will be a series of keynote speeches and panel discussions. Leading industry figures including Nick Kirby, Global Fraud manager at River Island and John Seddon, Senior Business Development manager for 'People Safe' are on the agenda amongst many others.

NaCTSO will be hosting two keynote slots.

11:05 - Terrorism threats and what it means for the retail sector

This session will include an update on the current threat level and what it means for the retail sector. If you are attending, we are keen to know what may be interesting to you, so that we can make sure the event is as useful to you and your fellow attendees.

Please take a minute to complete our short survey and tell us what you think.

11:45 - Interactive workshop - Guidance, resources and practical solutions for the retail sector.

This session will include discussions focused on practical solutions to manage the threats from terrorism and is an opportunity to discuss the benefits our guidance can have on some of the other challenges which the retail industry faces.
